Meeting called to order by committee chairman Terry Sischo at 6:46 p.m.

Discussion on upcoming education session to be held at Loyal High School on April 3 at 7:30 p.m.

It was decided to have two sessions running simultaneously for this session. One session would be held in the classroom. Justin Luther will head up this session. He will concentrate on tips on raising lambs for the fair. The other session would be held in the shop and consist of educational posters dealing with lamb cuts of meat, breeds of sheep, market pricing of lambs, etc. Each session would last about 20 minutes. At the end of those sessions all participants will meet in the classroom for a wrap up dealing with members questions, livestock project forms, fair book changes, herdsmanship changes, etc.

Group then discussed the problem of not having a sheep judge for the 2014 fair as of this time.

Group then discussed their concerns with the fairboards rule for pen cleanout after the 2014 fair. Will discuss this at greater length after this year's fair and how the new procedure works out.

Meeting adjourned at 7:30 p.m. and the members went to the general livestock meeting which started at 7:30 p.m.
